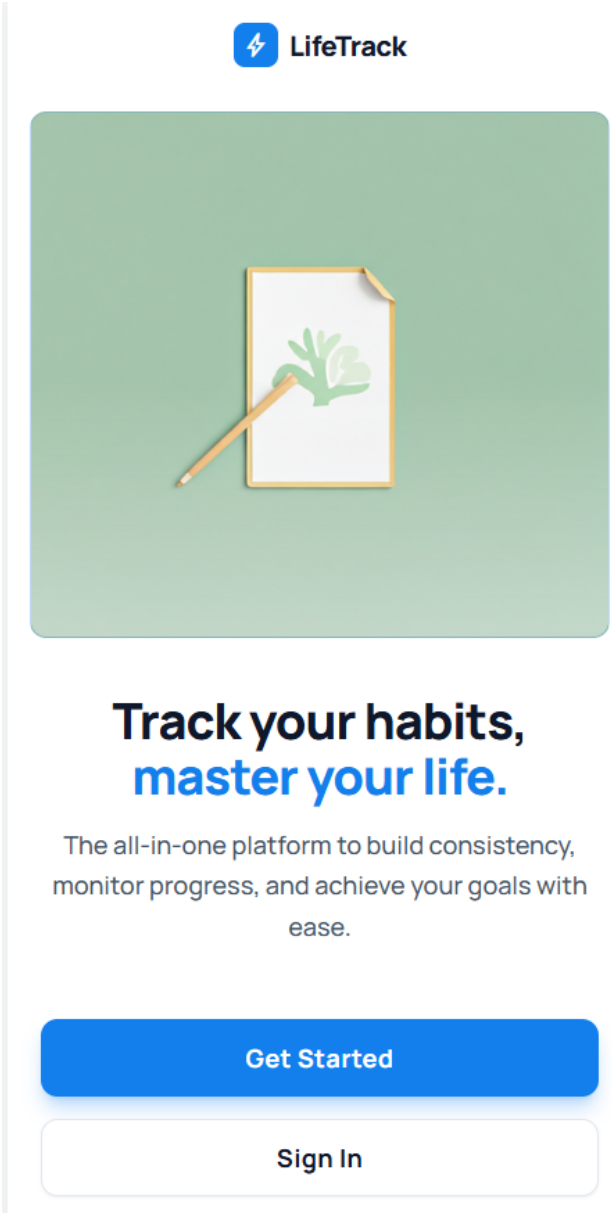
LifeTrack User Guide

Quick help for signing in, tracking habits, reviewing progress, and managing your account.



Designed for the in-app Help & Support link

This guide is written for everyday users of the LifeTrack mobile web app. Use it to create an account, log your sleep, exercise, study, and water intake, then review your progress over time.

Quick start

1. Create an account or sign in.
2. Open Dashboard to review today's progress.
3. Use the Habits tab to log Sleep, Exercise, Study, and Water.
4. Use History to review past records.
5. Use Profile to update goals and account settings.

Contents

1. Get started
2. Dashboard and navigation
3. Log sleep
4. Log exercise
5. Log study sessions
6. Log water intake
7. View history
8. Manage profile and goals
9. Tips and support

Tip: the bottom navigation bar gives you fast access to Dashboard, Habits, History, and Settings/Profile at any time.

1. Get started

To begin using LifeTrack, open the app from the landing page and choose whether you want to create a new account or sign in with an existing one. The app supports standard email and password login, and may also provide Google sign-in depending on your deployment setup.

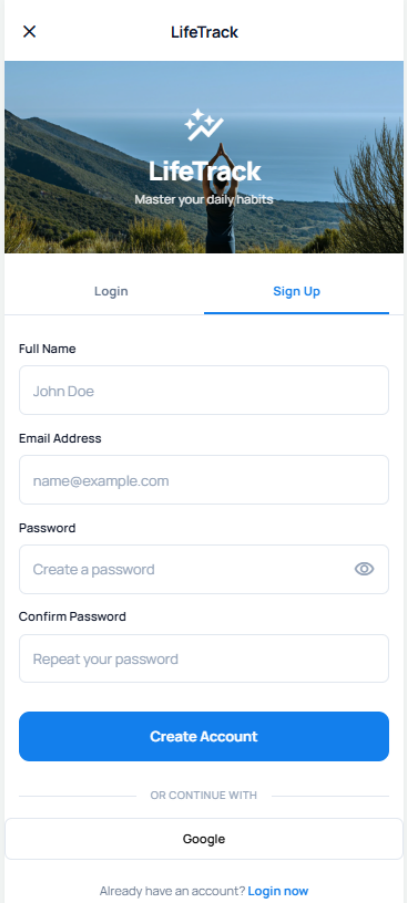


Figure 1. Sign up with your full name, email address, and password.

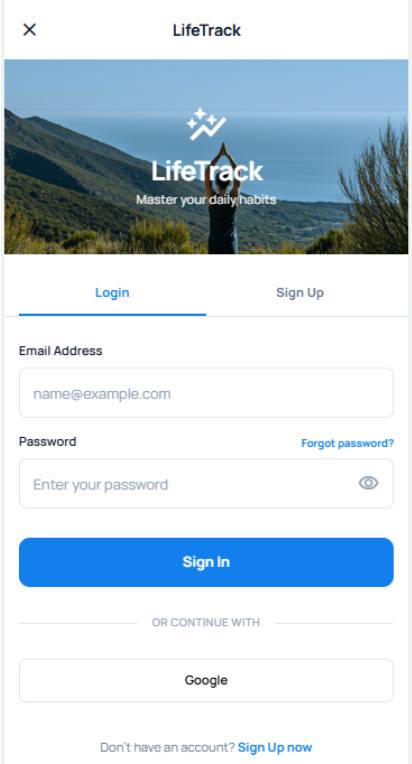

Figure 2. Sign in with your existing account details.

- On the landing page, tap Get Started or Sign In.
- To create a new account, open the Sign Up tab, enter your details, then tap Create Account.
- To sign in, open the Login tab, enter your email and password, then tap Sign In.
- After a successful login, you will be taken to the main app pages.

2. Dashboard and navigation

The dashboard gives you a quick summary of today's progress, including how many habits you have completed and a simple weekly activity chart. The Habits page is where you log individual activities. Use the category tabs at the top to switch between Sleep, Exercise, Study, and Water.

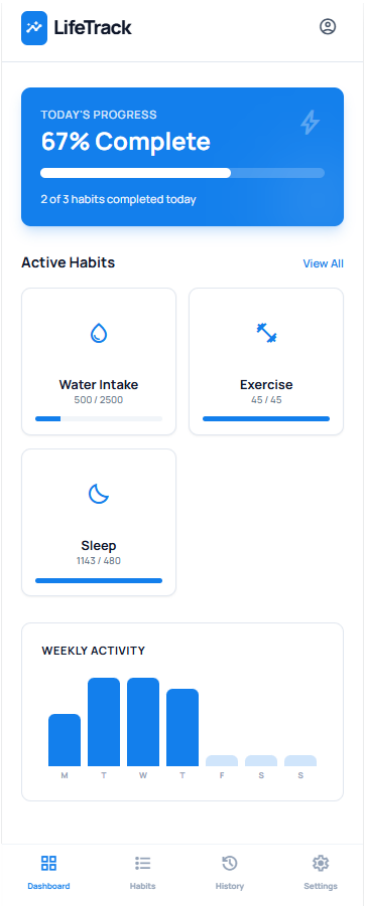

Figure 3. Dashboard with daily progress and weekly activity.

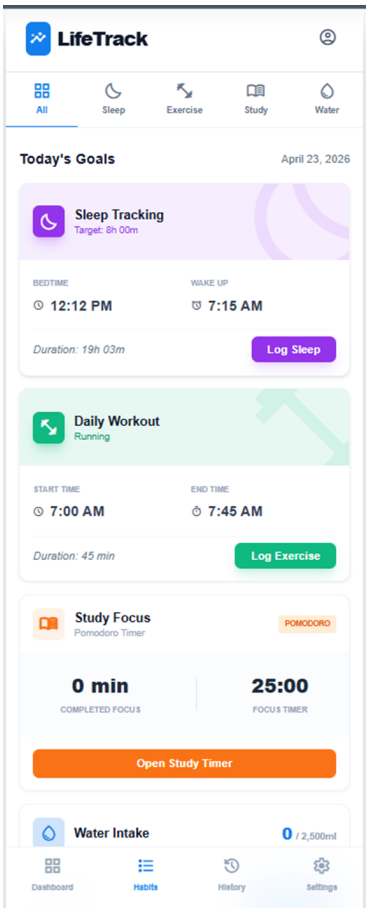

Figure 4. Habits page with today's goals and category tabs.

- Use the Dashboard tab to check overall completion for the day.
- Open the Habits tab to view all tracked habits in one place.
- Tap a habit card or category tab to open the relevant logging screen.
- Use the bottom navigation bar to move between main screens quickly.

3. Log sleep

The Sleep screen is used to record your bedtime, wake-up time, and sleep quality. LifeTrack automatically calculates the total duration for you, so you do not need to work it out manually.

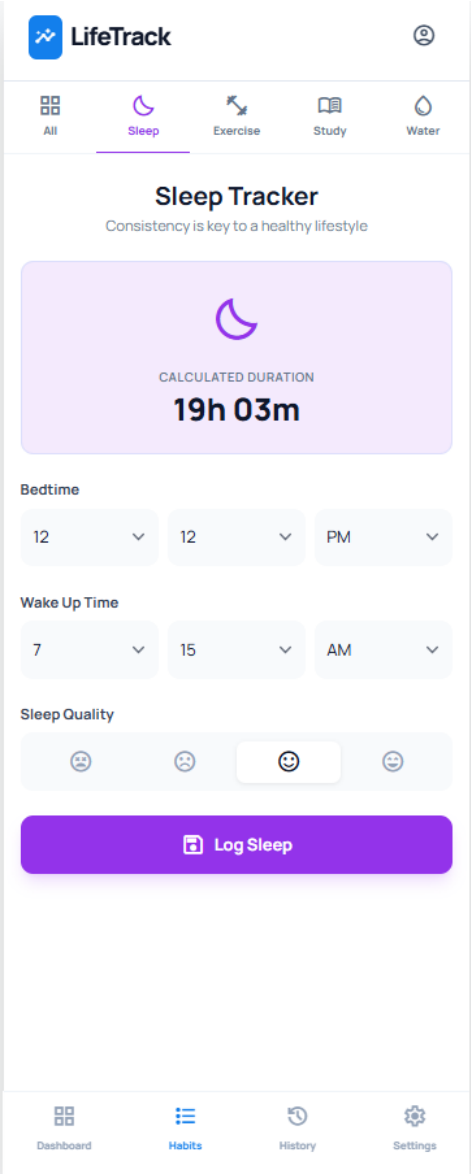

Figure 5. Sleep tracking page with automatic duration calculation.

- Open Habits > Sleep.
- Choose your Bedtime and Wake Up Time.
- Check the calculated duration shown in the centre panel.
- Optional: select your sleep quality icon.
- Tap Log Sleep to save the record.

4. Log exercise

The Exercise screen records physical activity based on a start time and end time. LifeTrack calculates the total duration and stores the activity against your daily exercise goal.

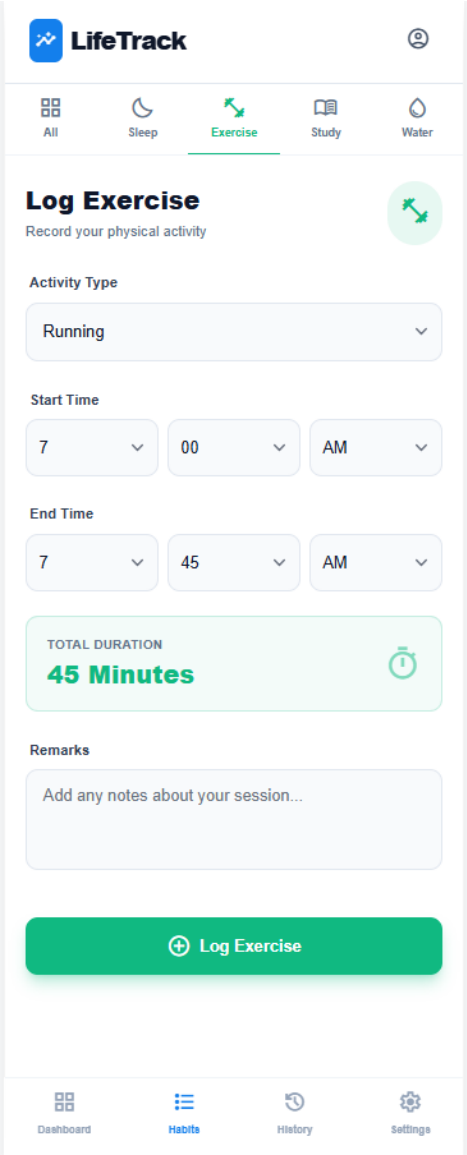

Figure 6. Exercise logging page with activity type, time entry, and remarks.

- Open Habits > Exercise.
- Select an Activity Type, such as running or another workout.
- Set the Start Time and End Time.
- Review the Total Duration shown by the app.
- Optional: add notes in Remarks, then tap Log Exercise.

5. Log study sessions

The Study screen uses a focus timer layout to support Pomodoro-style sessions. You can start, pause, and reset the timer, adjust the focus and break length, and add details about what you studied.

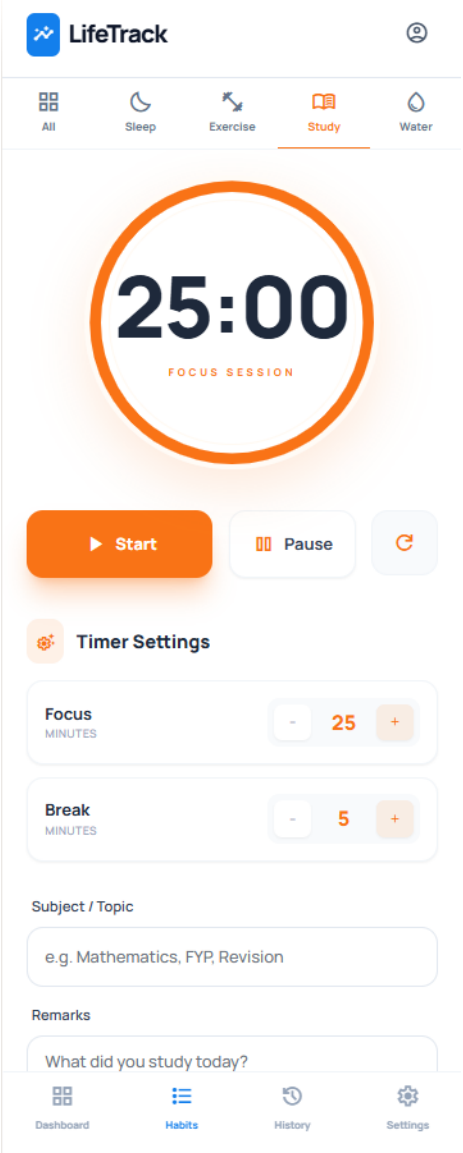

Figure 7. Study page with timer controls and session settings.

- Open Habits > Study.
- Use the timer controls to Start, Pause, or Reset the session.
- Adjust the Focus and Break durations if needed.
- Add a Subject / Topic and optional remarks.
- When your session ends, the recorded study time contributes to your daily study progress.

6. Log water intake

The Water screen shows your daily hydration goal, the amount already logged, and the remaining amount needed to reach the target. You can increase or decrease the selected amount or use quick-select buttons for common values.

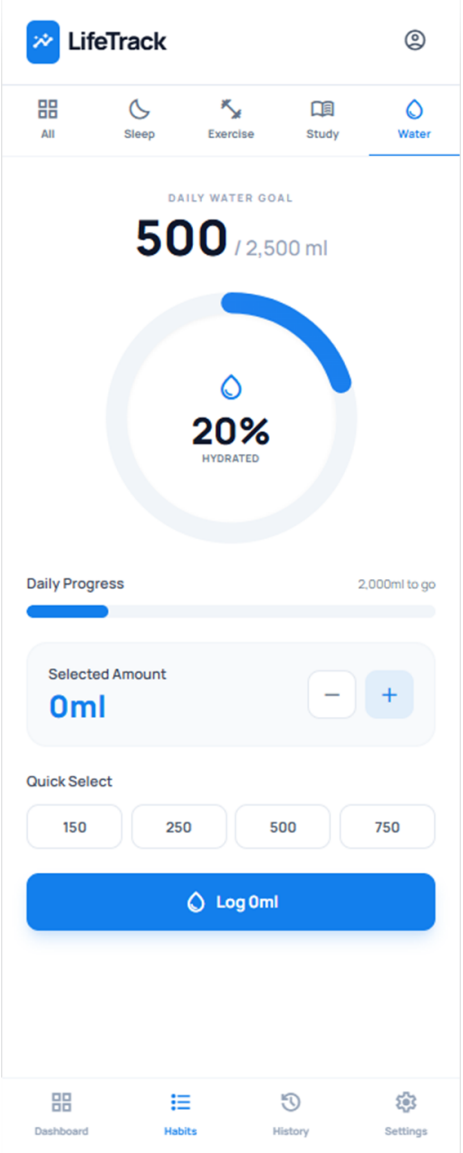

Figure 8. Water intake page with hydration progress and quick-select amounts.

- Open Habits > Water.
- Use the + and - buttons or the quick-select options to choose an amount.
- Check the updated hydration percentage and daily progress bar.
- Tap the main Log button to save the selected volume.

7. View history

The History screen helps you review past records by date. Select a day from the calendar to load all saved entries for that date, then use the action icons to edit or remove records if necessary.

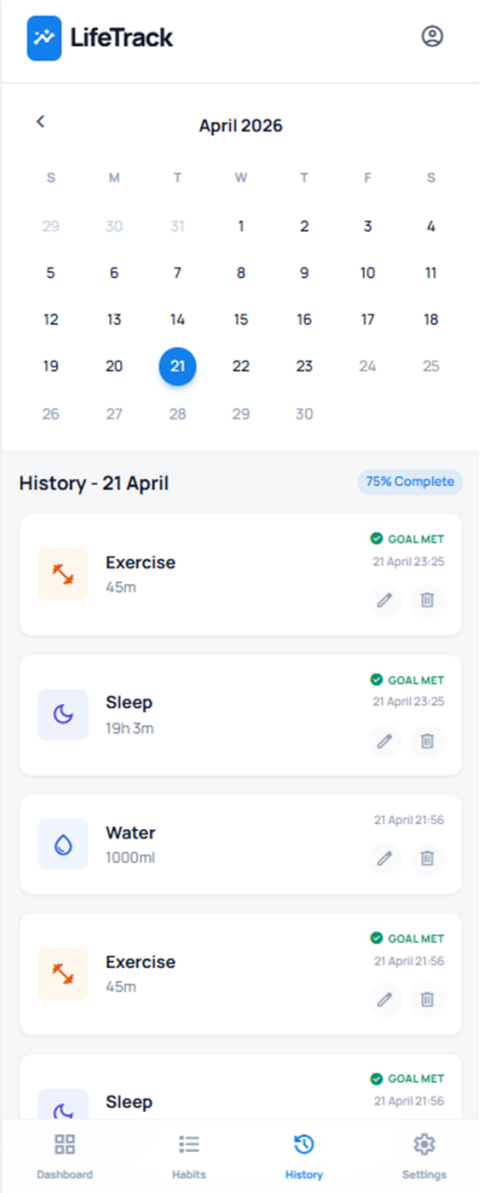

Figure 9. History page with date selection and saved habit entries.

- Open the History tab from the bottom navigation bar.
- Select a date on the calendar.
- Review the listed entries, completion labels, and timestamps.
- Use the edit or delete icons if you need to update an existing record.

8. Manage profile and goals

Your profile area contains account information, current goals, summary statistics, and account settings. This is the best place to update personal targets for sleep, water, exercise, and study.

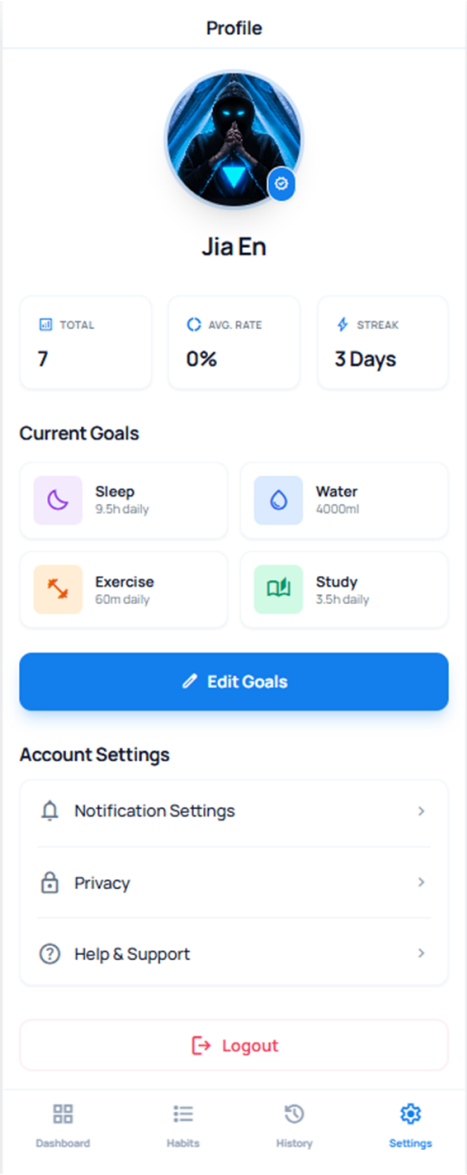

Figure 10. Profile page with statistics, current goals, and settings.

- Open the Settings/Profile tab.
- Review your totals, average rate, and streak.
- Tap Edit Goals to change your daily habit targets.
- Use the settings list for notifications, privacy, and support options.
- Tap Logout when you want to end your session securely.

9. Tips and support

Use the following tips to get the best experience from LifeTrack.

- Log habits regularly so your dashboard and weekly activity remain accurate.
- Check the History page if a value looks incorrect or you need to confirm when something was logged.
- Update your goals in Profile whenever your routine changes.
- If a session appears incomplete, return to the relevant habit page and confirm that you tapped the main log button.
- Use the in-app Help & Support option to reopen this guide whenever you need a refresher.

Need help?
This PDF is designed to open from the Help button inside LifeTrack so users can understand the core screens quickly. Update this file whenever the interface changes so the guide always matches the live app.